Yesterday, I looked at our "hit counter" and we were at 9875 and I said to myself, I wonder who would make the counter turn 10000 When I woke this morning, I looked at the site and it was me that turned 10000! I'm just happy to see my luck has not changed. I would like to thank my partner, Ron Valli, for all the hard work. I understand now that our chat engine is in its final stages. To all the hundreds of Charter Members, thank you for your dedication. We will all be talking soon. Ron Tramontano, CEO, The Martial Arts Network

I have always been facinated by the martial arts but am wondering which style would be best suited for me. I am 6'8" tall and 220 lbs. I have storing legs, but not a very stout upper body (look at your typical basketball player) with better than average flexibility. Are there any resources on the Net that could assist me in making a good choice?

Comments: G'day everyone. My first time on the TMAN guestbook. I an interested in emailing other martial artists around the world in order to build up my own knowledge of the arts. I have been practicing martial arts for 20 years in the following disciplines; Go-Ju-Kai Karate, under Tino CEBERANO, Hontai Joshin Ryu Ju-Jutsu under Soke INOUE, Shootfighting under John WILL, and Brazilian Ju-Jutsu under Rigan MACHADO and Carlos GRACIE Jnr. I an interested in how other countries perceive the World Combat Championship, and the ultimate fighting championship. After 15 years of standup training I am totally convinced of the effectivness of Brazilian Ju-Jutsu in real life situations, and am interested to hear what others think.

Comments: Mau Gai is an art form developed entirely in Peru. It is basically enhancing one's natural fighting abilities through no rules fights. That is why no Mau Gai fighter has the same technique, because fighting is very personal, each has his/her own style. Inner energy is also developed through meditation and breathing under the pale moon, just as the ancient Incas did.

He holds a 4th Dan in Wing Chn Kung Foo, but found that it's preset fighting styles and rituals weren't applicable to everyday combat situations. After much work- Kindai Bujitsu came about. In English, Kindai Bujitsu means Modern Warrior. The words Kindai Bujitsu Are Japanese. If anyone is interested in chatting about this art can e-mail me at s_mason1@tuna.stmarys.ca I would love to hear about other arts.

Comments: I became interested in finding your site because my daughter takes classes with Master Crawley Berry at the Tang Soo Do in Delaware. I volunteered to help Master Berry create his own home page and I wanted to see how you had yours done, for continuity. I would like to use some of the images you use (like the NATSD insignia at the top of the home page, and some others) but I was not able to save those images. Would it be too much trouble to get copies of the artwork included in your site, so I can show Master Berry and be able to include some of them in his page? If you are willing to send them, please e-mail the images to me in MIME encoded format. Thank you in advance for both me and Master Berry.

Is your "charter membership" limited to school owners? Still, I'll bookmark this, and visit again. I'll also pass on the URL to other martial artists in my area! For the record, I actually "found" your site via your email to me (group mailing, based on member profiles on AOL??). I've studied shotokan karate, some judo, and have a black belt in taekwondo, but have an interest in all things related to martial arts. (I even got my wife hooked on going to tournaments, and watching MA movies!!)

I should have my blackbelt but unforeseen surgeries arose and I was forced out of practicing for over a year now. I am slowly but surely regaining strength and will be returning full time in a couple of weeks. I love the dicipline, and I love having a place to channel negative energy. Any and all of you may email, and if any of you live in the Maryland area, I would love to get together with you and talk about you studies. BTW I'm 18, Red shoulder length hair, brown eyes/or green depending on my mood. Hope to hear from you.

I'm very keen to liaise with any Christians that have had any involvement with martial arts, either from personal experience of training, counselling those that have trained, or questions relating to either. Please email me for details of BACMA. Take two minutes out to do the following: Get a bible, read Ephesians, chapter 2 verses 8&9. If you understand it, great. If not, email me and I'll tell you! Comments: I've noticed a distressing trend for martial artists to neglect training on the mental/spiritual level. Those that I've worked with in this area have reported better physical results because of it! We all need to study our Yin/Yang, Um/Yang, In/Yo again! My group is the Cumberland Martial Arts Association in Kentucky/Tennessee. Here in our Somerset school, we have many dedicated individuals. It's so refreshing to work and train with people who have this type of attitude. One last thing, we study TKD and use the forms Chon-ji, Tan-gun etc... We have sought long and hard for good research on the people referred to in the black belt forms... Kwang-Gae, Po-Eun etc. but have found very little. If you have anything you'd care to share, we would appreciate it very much! Take care, and thanks again for your time.

Comments: I originally found the page via an email message sent to me through America on line. I haven't gotten a chance to fully exploit the resources yet, but I am impressed so far. My sensei, Chuck Cawthon, is opening a dojo in Hartwell this weekend, and we are busily in preparation for that. I am very excited about the new place. I would like to extend an invitation to all those in the North Georgia, South Carolina region to come and see what we have going on. The open house is Saturday, August 3rd from 10:00am until 4:00 pm and the Grand opening is Monday August 5th. Classes are very reasonably priced (allowing for trips from other areas (like Athens or Atlanta even). I have been studying on and off for fifteen years now, holding a black belt in Tae Kwon Do and soon to test for my blue belt in Contemporary Martial Arts. Anyone interested in talking about tournaments in the Southeastern region or about martial arts in general can contact me at medgarr@hartcom.net or medgarr@aol.net. I am excited about all of the potential in both the Martial Arts Network and my sensei's new dojo!

I run a Tae Kwon Do club in Edmonton, London, England and would love to hear from anyone that has a contribution or question regarding Christianity and martial arts. Do you believe that you are a christian, or do you positively know you are? I have a 2nd degree in WTF Tae Kwon Do, 1st degree in Sul Ki Do (similar to Hap Ki Do & Kuk Sool Won), and am a qualified self defence coach. I really enjoy teaching and helping other get a sense of self worth from martial arts, and try to promote christianity in my club. All questions and comments gratefully received.

On Saturday, October 26, 1996, I attended a martial arts tournament hosted in honor of Sijo Emperado (founder of the KAJUKENBO System) held in Santa Clara (near San Jose), California. It was an open tournament but most of the competitors were from the KAJUKENBO. There were many martial arts pioneers in attendance: Adriano Emperado, Ming Lum, Al Novak, Sig Kufferath, Joe Halbuna, Charles Gaylord, Cacoy Canete. There were other notable martial artists in attendance: Malia (Dacascos) Bernal was filming the event for her network show which will be an eight part series shown on ESPN. Max Togisala (tournament promoter), Emil Bautista, Ted Sotelo, Gary Forbach (who performed an awesome form) and many many more. Some of the top fighting school in California were there including BITW (Oakland) and Rick Kingi's Team (Inglewood). The day was filled with brotherhood & commeraderie and of course some heavy banging! Well, just wanted to share with you this special Northern California event. MARTIAL ARTS FOREVER!!!

Comments: I have a KAJUKENBO Studio in Santa Clara, California. I have been training Kajukenbo since 1971. I am under the Kajukenbo Association of America, "Gaylord Method". At our school we use the Kajukenbo as our foundation or base. We add grappling (Jujitsu) & trapping to compliment our Kajukenbo and ranges of fighting. We also incorporate western boxing. I have a former Pro Boxer who is full contact karate World Champion, Chris Brinkerhoff, at the school. I also have an "all range" full contact Black Belt, Dr. John Bono, at the studio. He recently helped prepare a fighter for the UFC. We have alot of fun at the studio. Other Martial Artist who we recommend to seminar with are: Gracie Jujitsu (Rickson in particular), Larry Hartsell (JKD grappling affiliated with Dan Inosanto), Edgar Sulite (lameco system), Paul Vunak (JKD Trapping), to name a few. "Empty your cup and take in all that is usefull and pratical. If it does not work ... throw it out". If you are ever in the San Francisco Bay Area ... drop by and train with us. Also, I would like to pay tribute to all of the Martial Art Founders ... without them we would not be thriving in all of this GREAT MARTIAL ARTS! MARTIAL ARTS FOREVER!

Comments: I started taking Tang Soo Do four months ago and am very happy with the martial art. The idea of becoming a part of a world that holds much more than what meets the eye fascinates me, but I am curious to know what your perspective is in terms of how much rising martial artists can gain now-a-days. I am good friends with the son of a martial artist who trained with Grand Master Hwang Kee in Korea. His father started at the age of six, and my friend has received excellent training from his father. I am curious to know wether or not you think the average person receives watered down training as compared to that received by my friend and his father (they seem to think so), and what could be done to maximize my efficiency in this situation? Also, I would greatly appreciate any inside "tricks of the trade" such as excercises, strethes, and any further advice that one doesn't hear now a days.

Thank you very much,

Andres Quintero

Comments: I find it surprising to find a Tang Soo Do page on the net. I've lived in Germany almost 10 years and I've found only two different schools of Tang Soo Do. I started when I was around 3, moved around a lot, and earned my b-belt at the age of 15. Out of all the different styles I've encountered, I find Tang Soo Do to be the best in teachings, discipline, and in overall results in tournaments and skill. Thank You for this opportunity to express my gratitude. TANG SOO!!

Recognizing and abiding to these limitations will ultimately set you free. Do you want Martial Arts to save your life, get you into better physical and mental condition or all of the above. Do not over or underestimate any martial art system till you understand how it will work for you.

To those of you that feel one martial art is better than the other, don't fool yourself. It is the fighter that makes him/herself great not the style. All styles are great in their individual ways, as far as I am concerned there is one universal style,MARTIAL ARTS, wether it's Karate,TaekwonDo,JiuJitsu,Ninjitsu,Aikido,Savate,Sambo,Pentak Silat,Escrima,Kenpo,Kendo,Sumo, it doesn't make a difference we are all workers in the giant hive of martial arts knowledge. This was a beautiful tribute which also displays the true meaning of any search of self awareness weather through religion, meditation or martial arts and that is simply LOVE. I am 47 yrs old and a red belt in ITF Tae KwonDo studying with Mr Dave Hiltz in Sackville, Nova Scotia. It has been a longer than normal process for me but my determination will eventually see me reach my goal some day. The process of learning is more important than strapping on the next belt level in a quick rush to that goal. "You have something great going here and I will visit often."

And so if any other kung fu movie fan is out there and you know where their at then please let me know by e-mail, please I beg of you. My youngest daughter became State Board Breaking Champion and National Sparring Champion last year at the age of 6. My oldest daughter became State Board Breaking Champion this year taking the title from her sister (who came in third). They are only 18 months apart and are very competative. I became State Champion in forms this year in the age 30 to 35 womens green belt catagory. I love the discipline of this sport and I like what the art teaches my children. How would a Fourth Degree Ch'uan Fa Instructor with enough raw footage for a 35 half-hour program series (broadcast format) successfully market that series. Comments: Hi! I am 25, a Hungarian living in Montreal, Canada. I spent a few years training in Shotokan and Chito-ryu karate in Hungary and in Montreal. Presently I practice Aikibudo. I love it. Being a lighthouse, not too strong, fragile woman, this is the best style for me. I love it. I love martial arts and I just realized how addictive the internet is. I took me a week of daily surfing to end up finding your page as there are so many martial arts pages out there, with so many links, I don't seem to get to the end of it. Basically, if I am not in the dojo, I am on the Net. Are you guys are like that, or it's just me???

Comments: Are you a Martial Artist? Do you want people to read about what you have accomplished in your life or plan to? Now, you or your school /organization can have a Web Site right here on The Martial Arts Network. That's right! Why pay the high cost of creating a Web Site of your own, only to have no one know where to find you. The Martial Arts Network is the largest Web Site in the World for all styles of Martial Arts. Take a moment and picture this, handing a friend/relative your new web site address "http://www.martial-arts-network.com/Joe's Karate". And when they get there, the first thing they will see is all your information. That's not all. From your site they can link to a wealth of Martial Arts Information on TMAN. I'm impressed and I know you will be too. For a limited time only, we will create a Web Site for you right here on TMAN. It's easy! For a $100 setup fee and a $10 a month hosting fee, The Martial Arts Network will provide you with a page where you know people will be able to find you and your information. Please, call Ron Tramontano at 1-800-982-6476 for more information on this limited time offer.

Comments: Tang Soo Do is a Korean name, correct? Then why use the Japanese word "Karate"? Do you use it for business purposes? Or is it because their is no Korean word for "empty hand"? Why mix two different languages together? Will it not confuse the students? Do you teach them the Korean name for a punch, kick, block, throw, and etc? Or do you tell them "punch", "kick"? Reply if you can. Just inquiring that's all! Thank you

I also won the NASKA 18 and under overall championship in forms and fighting and was named the 1996 overall best boy (underbelt). I have recently joined the Velocity National Karate Team and will be traveling on the NASKA national tour and competing in the 8 and under blackbelt division in 1997. Those of you who already know me, know why I am nicknamed "Hollywood", those of you who are not yet familiar with me, you will be! Not including the days that I help instruct. The karate dojang is only three houses away from me. The karate school that I attend is World Karate Studio. It is where I spend most of my life, but it's really fun. Bye! Ko map sum ni da for taking the time to read this. Gary Ruggiero

Comments: To Jeremy Frost, thanks for the e-mail, but do you care to leave me your e-mail address and some information to back up your claims? Who is scum and why?? I have nothing but praise for the CMD school I'm at so perhaps you can understand my confusion over the overwhelming hatred to the CMD schools as a whole. I'm certain that some of the schools did or do have serious ethical problems. Do you know if all of the CMD schools are similarly run? My experience is no, but I'd like to hear from you. It seems to me that a lot of people are throwing around easy accusations without providing the supporting information. Even the newspeople in Chicago whom I've contacted who first reported on the ethical and tax violations agree that the organization has shaped up since these charges were filed in 1989. CMD is a very demanding martial arts. You don't master it in ten or even fifteen years. I apologize for my naivete as I am new to the field of martial arts. I mean no disrespect to any martial artists out there reading this, but I cannot reconcile my personal experiences with the incredible accusations I have read about CMD.

We are still very short of any literature on martial arts and artists here in Latvia, therefore I am excited that it is possible to find so much stuff, for example, on TAEKWONDO alone. I am 25 years old and only some time ago I decided to go in for martial arts. The choice is very small here, I chose TAEKWONDO and actually this is my first serious sports training in my life. I hope I will find an encouragement for myself because sometimes I feel I am too old to achieve something in this field.

My job is to travel to the 500 dojos throughout Japan and teach technique, ki and fighting spirit. This is exciting work and my passion. If you ever come to Japan and want to (play) with the experts. Are you planning to have instructional features on this medium? If so, are they going to be presented by well known martial artist as well as long time instructors? As I do not currently operate a Dojo, but hope to in the future, can I still become a member of T-man? This is one of the most interesting sites for Martial Arts that I have come across. I am studying Shoalin Kenpo Karate via Masters Self Defense Centers in Salem N. H. . And I have found it to be one of the best experiences in my life. I look forward to visiting again and to subscribing to your cable channel if offered in my area. Kevin P. Cadieux 8 Warren St. Manchester, N. H. 03104

That is why it will surely be dangerous when used for bad reason. Self-defense, better health and to become a better person. Ultimate goal of Tang Soo Do is to become one with nature. Typed by Perry but learned from Tang Soo Do Masters.

Comments: Need Help!! To any martial artists in the New York area - I am trying to locate my former school as it moved several times and I have been out of touch. I was a former member/practitioner of Shaolin southern style Dragon Claw system. The school was the only one of it's kind and it was run by Sifu Yip Wing Hong. The school was originally located on Bayard street in "china town". It later moved to Brooklyn before relocating once again to china town in New York City. I have studied several styles including Grandmaster Allan Lee's Wu Su system and Pak Hok (Northern White Crane) system. I have always found my roots in the Dragon Claw system. The school has never advertised in any local papers or yellow pages, in fact they do not even have a telephone number when last I attended! The enrollment was small and very selective as the sifu spoke little english. However the school was very traditional in forms and classical weapons including the Lion Dance. The only past members I know of during my training are Nick, Shazod and Joyce. If anyone knows any information regarding the school I would be in your debt! Also any information regarding the southern style Dragon Claw system would be greatly appreciated!

Comments: I love martial arts, all of them, and have found a great deal of wisdom in Tang Soo Do. The dojo in our town is good, and I respect them for their willingness not be too soft. I personally study Go Ju Kai, along with other arts. I strongly believe in cross training as to not get stuck in too much tradition. I like to think of my knowledge as tools, and my brain is the box that holds them. Tang So Do has its place as a tool, but so do other arts. Tang So Do is a good art and I admire its practitioners, but encourage them to look to other arts to add tool to their "tool box".

Comments: I am in the US Air Force stationed in Turkey. I'm a black belt in Taekwondo, a 1st Gup in Combat Hapkido, and a blue belt in Ed Parker's American Kenpo. Currently I teach TKD and train in Hapkido, Kenpo, and any other Martial Art that anyone will teach me. I have also studied Brazilian Jujitsu, Wing Chun, boxing and wrestling. My philosophy is that every Martial Art or combative sport has its strengths and comparative weaknesses, and every style I've trained in has made me more prepared to defend myself should need arise. Bottom line: IT'S ALL GOOD!! See ya in the dojang...

That way you would increase more memberships from computer interest to face to face hands on membership. Or show some of the great movies, great kung fu classics and not just Master Bruce Lee. It was good to read about the Legend Frank Dux, and thanks for supplying a picture of this great hero of the CIA and a true warrior of the the martial arts family. Comments: This page seems interesting ! I am a Taekwondo black belt 1st dan holder and I'm intending to go for 2nd dan. I have been participated in Taekwondo since ten years ago, and I found out that Taekwondo is not for the street-type of fighting. Taekwondo expert is very flexible but its techniques are more toward sports. So, I joined Karate & Ninjutsu for about a year but didn't take any grading, just to learn their skills. Taekwondo is much more flexible than Karate or Ninjutsu but the latter have very good street-fight techniques. The main thing is don't compare between martial arts, each has its own merits. You can learn more than one martial arts but make sure you master one martial art first before you proceed.

Comments: There are shoots who is flower, but never blossom. Then there are shoots who is to blossom, but never bear fruit. -Confucius I found the site interesting and I enjoyed coming here. I study a style called Gorrilla Fist under 4th degree black belt, Mark Gowin. This style was formed from a system composing of 19 forms of martial arts, 10 karate and 9 Gung Fu, wrestling and boxing. I'm curenly a 5th degree red belt in this style and I'm well on my way to getting my black belt in Febuary. I have a pretty good background in what I call karate science/knowledge and would enjoying working with anyone with questions. I'd also like to work with this site if at all possible, so please e-mail sometime. By the way, Fantastic Homepage. variety of styles, Isshinryu, Kodokan Judo, Shotokan, Chinese Kaju-Kenpo, Gojo-Ryu, got tired of being "busted" to white belt every time we moved. Do not want to subject myson to this; do not want him to be discouraged and quit when he has worked so hard esp. since he is young. Style is T'ang Soo Do. Any chance of help out there?

If anyone has any suggestions on a practical alternative to Taekwondo (note: prefferably not anything as viscious as Tae boxing)please email me at: mynameissteve@hotmail.comNote: I am not saying Taekwondo as an art is innefective, it is more likelyto be that my club is not as good as others.

Comments: Japanese Fighting Spirit Like a cat ready to pounce on a mouse, I eye my adversary for a weakness. The tension between us could be cut with a knife. Nervious sweat dripped from our brows as the moment of truth approached. At the same instant we jolted into action. My sword hits the mark, lops off his right ear, shreds his left jaw and crunches his entire shoulder. He tumbles to the ground like a sack of potatoes as I sheath my sword. To my dismay, three of my digits litter the floor. In the art of sword fighting you must always remember: "VICTORY HAS ITS PRICE" The ultimate physical game of chess for the martial artist. GOSHINDO, (Kombat Kenjutsu) is a smorgasbord. Knives, short and long swords, double swords, and spears flail and slash at blinding speed. In a few short breaths of trial and error one can experience the reality of cracking Sparticus' skull or crushing his bones to a fine featherdust. With the invention of AIR SOFT TM. Chanbara swords we are now able to effectively fight at 100% of our strength, power and capability. In a relatively short period of time you will master those parries, blocks, thrusts and cuts you have practiced for so many hours at you dojo or residence. Come to Japan and work out with the masters for FREE!! No obligation, but to sweat like you have never sweat before. We will refine your stroke, your stance, your breathing, your balance your rhythm, your speed, your ki and mold you into a confident and proficient martial artist. Take a look at our home page <http://www2.gol.com/users/chanbara>

Comments: I am a Sept. 4, 1971 1st Degree Black Belt of Motobu-Ryu and was trained on Okinawa while stationed there at Kadena Air Base. My Sensei was (at the time) Sensei Shian Toma, now Master Toma. I stopped practicing Karate about 1975-6 due to work and school. I started taking the Martial Arts again in 1994 at the age of 46. On December 21, 1996, at age 49 I received my 1st Degree Black Belt of Jhoon Rhee Tae Kwon Do. I am now 50 and I am continuing to practice hard --- it is the only way. For those interested, I have pictures of Master Toma, his school and some of his students, including myself. It has been a long time, but I have fond and respectful memories of Master Toma's early schools. Keep on kicking, Wayne Forest, Va USA - Wednesday, July 23, 1997 at 21:16:20 (EDT)

It is very gratifying to see a site dedicated to the networking of martial artists from all styles. For too long we have always been suspicious of other organizations instead of forming a united front for the betterment of the martial arts community as a whole. Anyway, I just want to mention that I did not see in that list of the best martial artist Shihan Fumio Demura, in my opinion, one of the best in the world. By the way, I had the honor to be with him and Shihan Ling Sung in Caracas, Venezuela. So, keep this good job and martial arts up. Good luck to all. Tank you.

Comments: Just a line to say, Greetings to all my fellow brothers and sisters involved in "The Way" of Budo. Eternal Greetings and Blessings to you and all whom are yours. My Name is Fuji. I have been around or involved in martial arts most of my life. My Dad,a "former" Marine(is there really such a thing!)trained while he was staioned in Japan. So I was exposed to the Eastern Ways at a young age. I have studied Traditional Karate with my Dad, Tae Kwon Do with my brother, but, my true love quickly became Aiki-jujitsu. I have had the privledge of training with some of the truely great Instructors. Pro. Robert H. Williams Soke Makoto-Ryu Aiki-jujitsu, who received his Masters level under Pro. Ronald Duncan back in 1973. He, after many years and tears allowed me and 2 others to become East coast Reps. for our system. We, sensei Thomas Mack and Abdul Ali also had the privledge to assist at the "95' Martial Arts University, where we had the chance to meet and greet some unknown members of our Universal Family. We met so many wonderful Friends, hopefully you were one of them ! Well thanx for letting me share a little chat with you !:) Stay heathy and may many blessings be upon all who are yours ! Fuji

Comments: Han Soo Do is a non classical method of using practice techniques that really work and pressure tested in the gym to ensure that they do work. Han Soo Do has no grading system or ranking system, pupils are not graded because it is our belief that everyone should be an individual in the way that they approach self defence and combat, therefore our techniques are developed by the individual in order that they can use what is best suited to them, how do you grade a student on a system that has been adapted by himself but steered by us at Han Soo Do. Han Soo Do pupils believe in cross training so they can see all that is available to them and use and adapt only what is useful to them. We therefore invite many instructors from various systems and styles to teach at our schools, in this way can we ensure that HSD develops into a modern art.

Comments: I am training towards my shodan rank in shotokan karate. I am required to write a research paper and I have chosen to do so on women in the martial arts. I am asking women to please e-mail me with their input. I am interested in the reasons you began training and the styles you have studied. Please include what you feel your training has done for you physically, mentally as well as spiritually. Please also include your future goals as a women martial artists. Thank- ing you in advance for your help. Respectfully, Regan Vogel

I am currently studying Pekiti Tirsia Arnis (Filipino Martial Art) with Mataas Na Guro Erwin Ballarta in Austin, Texas. I have been studying with Guro for a little over two years and love our class. Question: Is there anyone in the Flagstaff/Sedona/Grand Canyon area that teaches Arnis/Escrima/Kali? I will be traveling there in late October and would like to see other classes if there are any available. Thanks for your help.

Comments: My comment concerns the martial arts community. I have seen first hand different practioners slamming and bad-mouthing others and their styles. Why? I can certainly understand being motivated and confident in one's art but as far as to go and badger another art is absurd. I think that all arts have something or other to offer. They wouldn't exist if nobody practiced them and they weren't useful or fun. These "artists" who run their schools in such fashion should worry less about the other schools, and concentrate on the quality of instruction and effective- ness of thier existing art. The martials arts are bound together by far more qualities than they differ. I think many people forgot this fact.....any comments for me can be directed to my E-mail address above.....

Comments: I've been studying martial arts on and off for about 10 years.I've been researching a man by the name of Frank Dux for the past 3 year. I was finally able to get a letter sent out to this fine man on oct 5, 1997. I have not yet receiveed any response. I very fascinated and grateful for the good things that he has acheived and done for the martial arts community. He has also done many good things for our country and many other countries. I am a single mother with 2 daughters who also study martial arts. Since they have seen the movie Bloodsport, and been researching Mr. Dux along with mom. They have grown to respect this man and his accomplishments just as much as mom. I've studied 4 styles of martial arts, Tang Soo Do, Tae Kwon Do, Shotokun and I am now working on learning Sholin Kung Fu. If anyone has any information on Mr. Dux, or how to get in contact with him. Please e-mail me at pzso@earthlink.net. Mr. Dux I would really like to hear from you.

Actually, the choice was a gift to myself celabrating my weight loss of 100lbs. I've always wanted to train in a martial art since I was a child and when the opportunity presented itself, I took it. The training, history, tradition and sense of community are absolutly priceless.

Comments: Our black-belt / bodyguard instructors teach 'Smartfighting TM': a full-contact blend of streetfighting techniques from Tukong Moosul (the South Korean Special Forces martial art), Muay Thai, Phillipino knife fighting techniques and improvised weaponry, which is innocent everyday items as deadly weapons. We conduct seminars in "all the good stuff" as an efficient streetfighting supplement to traditional martial arts training. We also have an excellent hand-to-hand combat manual , "Principles of Smartfighting" that can be used to help you fight efficiently, no matter what style you train in We work with the external and internal aspects of Warrior Training - dealing with external threats or tyrants and conquering the enemies within such as fears and negative attitudes. We conduct realistic, full force training on equipment and padded assailants. Because of the aggressive nature of our training, we go through kicking shields at an alarming rate. Does anyone recommend decent equipment that can withhold full force blasting for more than a couple of months? We are particularly interested in protective gear. We use Fist gear right now, which is okay, better than the flimsy foam tournament stuff, but we've still had broken noses, whiplash etc with that. (Warning: don't allow full force palm strikes or elbow strikes on Fist gear helmets. That "unbreakable" lexan visor smashes into the nose or cracks in two!) Has anyone used the Hitman suit yet? Please let us know how it works for you. (I know they say on their product info to not exceed 50% of full power on that .) If there are any inventors reading this, please invent a defensive tactics / full force training suit that can absorb massive percussive shock, protect the neck, spine and joints (especially knees) and allow blows to the head with whiplash support. We'll be first in line to buy it! Oh, and please check out our site everyone, an contact us if you would like a seminar or course at your school. TMAN is an excellent forum for sharing positive elements of the different martial arts .

It will be a way to do one stop shopping on some of the harder to find products. Just send me E-mail with address if you want a catalog shipped out once they become available, or leave message and return E-mail or phone # if you want correspondence. Comments: We have an enrollment of approximately 75 students. We teach ITF Tae Kwon Do and Hapkido, we also participate in midwest tournaments. We are both 3rd degree black belts and have been teaching for approximately 5 years. We took our instruction from Master Choon Lee and our children are also both black belts. We have trained for 14 years and absolutely love the Martial Arts. We would like to increase our student enrollment and would also like info on fund raisers etc...

interested in trying to get in some of the international compitition if I knew which tournaments have a handicapable division. I have found that many tournaments officials do not consider us martial artist or consider us second rate martial artist. I would like to see a list published or possibly have a list sent to me of tournaments with handicapable divisions. There are a lot of good handicapable martial artist and athletes out there that deserve a chance to compete. It makes me wonder if these tournament officials are afraid that we might beat the able bodied athletes. I would appreciate a list and who to contact about trying to get on some the teams. Currently I'm working on a paper "Martial Arts & Social Transformation" which will be used to earn credits toward my Bachelor's Degree. I am intersted in how the Martial Arts have effected the lives of the people who study - has been a great source of strength in my everyday world. Also interested in locating my first Instructor TOM MILLS as we have lost touch and it would be great to hear how he's doing.

Comments: Hi, I'm a Martial-arts lover I think! I've been in martial arts since I can remember, I'm 24 years old now. I've been concentrating these passed years on AIKIDO, I find it to be a very different martial art compared to the others. Although I like any form of martial art, I concentrate on AIKIDO. I've done other forms before, but I stopped full time training of these forms and started AIKIDO intensively about 6 years ago. I've also read many books on philosophies and martial arts. Reading about the founders about many arts e.g. Funakoshi, Gichin: the founder of Shotokan Karate and of Bruce Lee ofcourse, Sun Tzu, Chuck Norris, Lao Tzu, Kwai Koo Tzu, Ueshiba, Morihei: the founder of AIKIDO, Musashi, Miyamoto etc. My attention I must say goes to Take Shigemichi Sensei, this is the Japanese name of Steven Seagal. This man is an incredible man and you can read a lot about him on the net. I focus on the personal growth one gets from the martial arts rather than the physical ones and have learned a lot from them. Ofcourse is having the ability of doing all those things is good, but the Philosophy of the arts is great and the knowledge is so extensive that one can go on learning for as long as one lives.

Comments: I am presently a student of traditional chinese Kung Fu and a former student of scorpion Tae Kwon Do. At the present moment I am attending Ramapo College of New Jersey, where I am the President of the Organization of Martial Sciences. Our main goal is the promotion of martial arts to the general public who have extreme intrest but extansive disbelief. Many of the students here look at what is seen on television and take that for a Hollywood theatrical trick and not for what it really is. We are here studying various styles of martial arts and gaining insight to the science of these styles. We are entering open tournaments all throughout the state and are looking to compete nationwide. One problem that we are running into is that as a school club there is no division in which we can set scheduled tournaments for us to compete. It is my dream as well as my teacher's to build a division that will allow all martial arts club/sport organizations to fall under and interact as well as learn from one another while compeing. It is our understanding that martial arts is not just a competing lifestyle but that of a growing and developing nature. I am looking for any advice, help, or assistance that will aid in our cause. I am also looking to attain sponsors and founding members and schools. Please feel free to give my e-mail address and my message to all who you feel can and will be willing to come together under one division for the furtherment of collegiate martial arts and the building of martial arts in society. E-mail me back as soon as you read this message please. Dragon's Wrath

Comments: Hello there! Found you guys from a link on Degerberg Martial Arts

Homepage. I've been searching a LOOOONG time for the right school to begin training. I read quite a bit on any subject concerning martial arts, Eastern philosophy, Bruce Lee, and anything else I can get my hands on. I like to do things right the first time and don't want to keep joining and quitting schools. There have been a couple of schools I think I could really enjoy and meet 'my criteria' except distance. They're too far away. I need a place to go everyday. I've been partying the past couple of years and am sincerely ready to begin my training- serious training. I'm 25 years old and consider myself 'on the path to enlightenment'. My question is "Should I remain patient and continue to grow spiritually and find the right school for me?" or am I just wasting valuable time? I'm interested in a lot of styles certain Kung-Fu styles, Aikido, Kali, Thai boxing, Bushido(?), and Ninjitsu are a few. Well, thanks for your time. If you have any suggestions, you can E-mail me. If you're familiar with Chicago and know of any reputable schools in the western suburbs, it would be very much appreciated. Sincerely, Steve Novak

It seems you get the extremes at both ends when you teach and when you surf the net...some individuals are great and honor the art, while others are an embarrassment and seem to really need good instruction so they can mature emotionally and spiritually. I'd like to find a Martial Arts chatroom where I could talk with other instructors and school owners who aren't totally stuck on themselves and their art. we instructors, of all people should be open minded and willing to learn, discuss and grow deeper roots of understanding.

We have a first degree jujitsu black belt on our staff, also and emphasise a mixing of teachings from all the arts. Our base style is ChunDoKwan TaeKwon-Do and that is what we rank our students in but we teach that there is no best style, you're only as good as the effort you put into what you do! We rank through AIKIA because they are the only organization we found that allows our train of thought about the mixing of styles. This year in the Alabama State Circuit we garnered seven state titles, this from a small school,about 40 students, in a small town and in only our second year since we opened the school under our management.

I studied under O-Sensei Pablito Salazar for 12 years. O-Sensei Salazar was the General marked for death by Marcos when his attempt to kill Marcos failed because of an informant. He fled to the United States and brought his style of PentJak Silat and Eskrima mix to the United States. I want to congratulate you all for such a great page! "I will be back!"

interested in trying to get in some of the international compitition if I knew which tournaments have a handicapable division. I have found that many tournaments officials do not consider us martial artist or consider us second rate martial artist. I would like to see a list published or possibly have a list sent to me of tournaments with handicapable divisions. There are a lot of good handicapable martial artist and athletes out there that deserve a chance to compete. It makes me wonder if these tournament officials are afraid that we might beat the able bodied athletes. I would appreciate a list and who to contact about trying to get on some the teams. Currently I'm working on a paper "Martial Arts & Social Transformation" which will be used to earn credits toward my Bachelor's Degree. I am intersted in how the Martial Arts have effected the lives of the people who study - has been a great source of strength in my everyday world. Also interested in locating my first Instructor TOM MILLS as we have lost touch and it would be great to hear how he's doing.

Comments: Hi, I'm a Martial-arts lover I think! I've been in martial arts since I can remember, I'm 24 years old now. I've been concentrating these passed years on AIKIDO, I find it to be a very different martial art compared to the others. Although I like any form of martial art, I concentrate on AIKIDO. I've done other forms before, but I stopped full time training of these forms and started AIKIDO intensively about 6 years ago. I've also read many books on philosophies and martial arts. Reading about the founders about many arts e.g. Funakoshi, Gichin: the founder of Shotokan Karate and of Bruce Lee ofcourse, Sun Tzu, Chuck Norris, Lao Tzu, Kwai Koo Tzu, Ueshiba, Morihei: the founder of AIKIDO, Musashi, Miyamoto etc. My attention I must say goes to Take Shigemichi Sensei, this is the Japanese name of Steven Seagal. This man is an incredible man and you can read a lot about him on the net. I focus on the personal growth one gets from the martial arts rather than the physical ones and have learned a lot from them. Ofcourse is having the ability of doing all those things is good, but the Philosophy of the arts is great and the knowledge is so extensive that one can go on learning for as long as one lives.

How did you find TMAN?: Just lucky, I guess

Comments: I am presently a student of traditional chinese Kung Fu and a former student of scorpion Tae Kwon Do. At the present moment I am attending Ramapo College of New Jersey, where I am the President of the Organization of Martial Sciences. Our main goal is the promotion of martial arts to the general public who have extreme intrest but extansive disbelief. Many of the students here look at what is seen on television and take that for a Hollywood theatrical trick and not for what it really is. We are here studying various styles of martial arts and gaining insight to the science of these styles. We are entering open tournaments all throughout the state and are looking to compete nationwide. One problem that we are running into is that as a school club there is no division in which we can set scheduled tournaments for us to compete. It is my dream as well as my teacher's to build a division that will allow all martial arts club/sport organizations to fall under and interact as well as learn from one another while compeing. It is our understanding that martial arts is not just a competing lifestyle but that of a growing and developing nature. I am looking for any advice, help, or assistance that will aid in our cause. I am also looking to attain sponsors and founding members and schools. Please feel free to give my e-mail address and my message to all who you feel can and will be willing to come together under one division for the furtherment of collegiate martial arts and the building of martial arts in society. E-mail me back as soon as you read this message please. Dragon's Wrath

Comments: Hello there! Found you guys from a link on Degerberg Martial Arts

Homepage. I've been searching a LOOOONG time for the right school to begin training. I read quite a bit on any subject concerning martial arts, Eastern philosophy, Bruce Lee, and anything else I can get my hands on. I like to do things right the first time and don't want to keep joining and quitting schools. There have been a couple of schools I think I could really enjoy and meet 'my criteria' except distance. They're too far away. I need a place to go everyday. I've been partying the past couple of years and am sincerely ready to begin my training- serious training. I'm 25 years old and consider myself 'on the path to enlightenment'. My question is "Should I remain patient and continue to grow spiritually and find the right school for me?" or am I just wasting valuable time? I'm interested in a lot of styles certain Kung-Fu styles, Aikido, Kali, Thai boxing, Bushido(?), and Ninjitsu are a few. Well, thanks for your time. If you have any suggestions, you can E-mail me. If you're familiar with Chicago and know of any reputable schools in the western suburbs, it would be very much appreciated. Sincerely, Steve Novak

I would have to start from scratch. I do run every other day 3 miles and weightlift monday thru friday. I am not concerned about the price, I just want to learn the art. Is there anyone in my area that could do me justice. I would be very happy know this. thanks for your time danny craft

It seems you get the extremes at both ends when you teach and when you surf the net...some individuals are great and honor the art, while others are an embarrassment and seem to really need good instruction so they can mature emotionally and spiritually. I'd like to find a Martial Arts chatroom where I could talk with other instructors and school owners who aren't totally stuck on themselves and their art. we instructors, of all people should be open minded and willing to learn, discuss and grow deeper roots of understanding.

We have a first degree jujitsu black belt on our staff, also and emphasise a mixing of teachings from all the arts. Our base style is ChunDoKwan TaeKwon-Do and that is what we rank our students in but we teach that there is no best style, you're only as good as the effort you put into what you do! We rank through AIKIA because they are the only organization we found that allows our train of thought about the mixing of styles. This year in the Alabama State Circuit we garnered seven state titles, this from a small school,about 40 students, in a small town and in only our second year since we opened the school under our management.

Comments: Dear TMAN, I am 9 years old and have just began taking TaeKwonDo lessons and I like it very much. My school owners are friends of Chuck Norris and they have a picture of him with themselves and their little girl. I broke my first board today and it was exciting and it felt really good. I did it with a step behind side kick. I have learned how much power you can have when you know how to use it. I look forward to each and every lesson and I enjoy it very much. I am a white belt with 3 stripes and look forward to getting my yellow belt soon. I will visit your web site regularly and look forward to any news and information that may be helpful to me. Will chat with you later. Goodbye for now. Jameson Stell

How did you find TMAN?: Just Surfing On In!

Comments:

To The Grand Masters, Masters and Owners of Martial Schools:

It is a great pleasure to present the first professional Taekwondo Championship. The Professional Taekwondo Federation (PTF) is the first and only authorized professional Taekwondo federation of its kind in the United States. There is a great vision for the PTF to grow. The purpose of establishing the PTF is to foster and promote the growth of martial arts on the soils of the U.S. and help and support each school in its development. This is the initial stage and the very beginning of the tremendous growth to come in the future.

For this reason the PTF and the Texas State Professional Taekwondo Federation (TSPTF) tournament organizing committee will give back some of the entry fee to the owners of the martial arts school. Those schools who bring 10-29 students will receive a return of fees of 20% - those bringing 30 or more will receive 30% of fees. The grand championship awards are $6,000 -70% of which goes to the individual and the remaining 30% will be awarded to the winning competitor's school. Each division champion is $500.

There will be 8 divisions each for men and women. The final professional championship will be held from 5:00 PM to 9:00 PM on April 25, 1998. Between the final matches of each weight division there will be exhibitions featuring the US vs Canada, the US vs Mexico. There will also be demonstration competitions by martial arts schools ($1,000 award to the best performing school). Any school may apply for this demonstration. The first 10 applications will be chosen to compete.

There will be a parade of the participating martial arts schools around the West University area at 8:30 AM. The competition participants, their coaches, the Boy Scouts, and the Big Brothers and Sisters of Houston will be taking part.

We look forward to your enthusiasm and participation in this premiere event. In concert we will all grow together.

TEXAS PROFESSIONAL TAE KWON DO FEDERATION

I spoke to Mr. Interdonato about the launching of the network. I also gave Mr. Interdonato a trailer of my promo tape, "THE DUEL". Do you remember me yet? Short built Asian guy that spoke to you about my sensai which is Sensai Ed & Abby Griffin about the kickboxing matches? Well if you don't, please watch my trailer tape to see what I look like. You will like what you see. If you lost it, please let me know and I will be more than happy to send or give you another one in person since I am doing the Dragon Head for the Mardi Gras parade at Universal. Anywaays I was wondering if you guys knew about the kickboxing matches at Zuma beach Club downtown Orlando Sunday Feb.15 starting at 7:30pm. There are 10 fights scheduled along with four demo's and I will be performing the 15 minute extravaganza demo by myself. If you guys miss it, I will surely place a copy in your hands. Well hopefully I will be hearing from you guys. Have a good one, Phi-Long Nguyen.

Comments: Hello my name is Kal shadden and i would like to tell the martial arts community a little about myself! Now i have been in martial arts half my life and i have always been interested in going to tournaments but never had the chance . Also i have always dreamed of going to the far east japan, china and have a private sensei and train. But like i said i never had the chance or the money , and i know everything in this physical world takes money. But if somebody in this world would give me that chance that is high up, in the martial arts, i would not disappoint you . I would do whatever it takes to master whatever someone would train me in. and i think that i could become something special throughout the world!! Now i have "veiwed" many things in my life but truly think, if the chance was there i would be great . I have the history of jean-claude Vanberg, is his true name. And he started when he was a little and trained all his life, got known in his own country and was points fighter for a while ,and did some other things. Came to America , slept in his car met chuck man norris , and trained with him for while on weight training ,and other. Then he talked to John Woo for while and sat in the chairs in spit mode . And "woo" was impressed by him, so he got his first job in {Bloodsport} !!! I think that's correct . But now almost ten years later people want sue him for accidentally hurting them,that is not fair because if you do movie you take the risk in getting hurt, like" Brandon lee " and i think that guy is a complainer. What can i say about" Stephen Segall", I think he is very cockey type of person and i think and i think that he is jealous of" jean" and i think that the martial arts world feels the same towards that.!! If there was one person i would want to personally meet some day it would be"Jean-Claude Vandamm" because i've respected him. I am worried though, because of the news about him the last year. I know he has'nt made a movie for while, and that worries me ,as far as i'm concerned he is as close as someone like himself has to "Bruce Lee" has come around in a long time, and if this message is ever sent to "Jean-Claude " that i would like to ask you "Jean that to go back to your old ways before you were reconized or in the "media" and all the power that you have now and to rise above the" drugs and achohol " and be like you use to be when you did'nt have nothing , if that's true. Remember your the one that raised alot of peoples attention to martial arts, and there alot of people that look up to !! So please either get help or do something about it yourself!! Remember you went to"Brandons funeral " i dont want see you get hurt in any way like that,or hurt yourself because you have in many ways in your movies for justice , and defense against other people that think that they can come in to people lives and destroy their . All im truely asking from you is come and show the world your not as bad off as they thought you were sincerly ,{ Kal Shadden} And also for anybody that reads this i have trained in Shotokon, okinawan, nijitsu, mui tai, dragon,and i think that i would someday like to train in " Jeet koon DO" but like i said if there is someboy out there would train i would thanyou with all my heart , soul ,spirit and mind !!! I somebody gets this out to "jean" because i would like to meet you. The last sensei that i had was" Joseph Walker" two" World Karate Champion of U.S.K.A " and i respected him but i moved on for some reason and I now live in Denver,Co. AND HAV'NT TRAINED since then but want to go back to training and become something special . I had a half brother named" Randy Holman" that was a" U.S & World Karate Champion" back in the 70's i think but movie in a long time. I have readed all his history for a long time and hope he's alright, because about a year ago I heard he was'nt doing so well. So I thought that i would write this. I would have written this earlier but I just got on the net to the message out. I have taken three different styles which iclude dragon, shotokon, and okinawin karate. And even though i hav'nt trained in a long time I still care very much about martial arts and the way. I always dreamed of going to japan or china and having a prive sensa but I've never had the chance . If anyone sees this and i mean anyone that includes jean-claude also please reply to me. Thankyou very Kal shadden.

Comments: Good Morning, I am sitting here contemplating all of the preparations needed for our upcoming tradeshow in Atlanta next week. That's right! We are off again, this time to Cable '98 - the cable television industry's national tradeshow. Cable '98, will be our third appearance in front of the cable industry, and our participation at these shows just gets bigger and better each year. Our first show, Cable '97 was held in New Orleans and was a major success. Then came the Western Cable Show in Anaheim, in December, that was another feather in our cap. Both shows served us well by establishing The Martial Arts Action Network as a legitimate player in the new network arena and putting us in touch with several of the top MSO's like "Time Warner, TCI, Media One and Cox. We have come a long way since our first show and our little four man 10 foot booth. Now we exhibit with a custom design booth, packed in numerous crates and shipped by rail and air from city to city. Our display area has grown to 40 feet and boasts a full complement of network personnel and major celebrities. Cynthia Rothrock will be joining us for the full three days of the event attending parties, signing autographs and talking up the network. To all of you I say that, if you ever have the chance, find the time to meet Cynthia. You will find her to be a very beautiful, talented and extremely articulate woman. I look forward to watching her achieve all of her dreams, as I know she will. Tony Interdonato and I are happy to have Cynthia Rothrock on the "T.M.A.A.N." team. If the past shows are any indication, we anticipate a large crowd at our booth. Tony and I were amazed to find out how many top cable executive are Black Belts and attribute a good portion of their success to their martial arts training. Most offer their support and resource to help make this happen. Stay tuned to our web site for the latest information on the Cable '98 as it comes out of Atlanta, including a complete report when we return. My best wishes to all! Ron Tramontano

I certainly agree with her opinion as to the shortcomings of many popular martial arts schools. I even have an article about this topic entitled Standards on my home page. It seems that quality must indeed suffer in the name of quantity. And like her I find it hard to compete with the "assembly line" schools. It is hard to find those rare individuals that are willing to work hard and truly dedicate themselves to an art.

Comments: As you know, my name is Amy Adams and I was searching the web for interesting site on the web regarding Tang Soo Do. I am currently a secon Dan Black Belt and train in a small shool of an average 20-25 students. I have my own Dojang in Williamsport, Pa which I just took over in May of 1997. I have found that nost people who inquire about tang Soo Do and joining lose interest when they find out that it is a traditional art form. With the new "fad" on the martial arts, people seek art forms of popularity. Unfortunatly, in my area I've seen martial arts schools "pump" out black belts in just one to one and a half years. I feel that this is just a money making sheme and gives these pariular people a false sense of security thinking they can defend themselves in a time of need. Anyway, that is one personnal insight of mine. I like you website. If you have anymore sites to recommnd regarding Tang Soo Do, I would appreciate to know. Thanks, Tang Soo!!!!

I just wanted to say that I have met "Superfoot" Wallace and he is a pretty funny guy. If anyone ever gets a chance to meet him you should definatly take the oppertunity. And about the web-page, I think you should definatly put in a place for just commemts so that people don't have to keep coming back and signing the guset book everytime we want to say something. But I would Love the oppertunity to see Bill Wallace again. I still have the T-shirt that I got him to sign when he was here. He came up to do a tournament and Seminar with us I guess he knows my instuctors Master, Floyde Burk. (He lives in California.)

Comments: Its great that people take pride in their style of martial art, ie..karate, tae kwon do, jiu jitsu. However, some people are fooled into believing that their style is better than others. styles dont win fights, fighters win fights. Jui jitsu is nearly worthless if a TKD stylist lands a 360 roundhouse and TKD is worthless if the fight goes to the ground. One must train both in the stand up aspect and the ground aspect to be a complete fighter. Let me just comment on belt rankings, they dont win fights either.

She is the State Director in Puerto Rico, she is a wonderful person, great self defense and karate instructor, very sensitive to help their students and friends. I'm very proud of her. She is the only woman in our karate system that is School Director and have a private school. Yesterday in a tournament of Jujitsu in Barceloneta, PR that include Katas, Kumite, Wazas, and Kobudo our school had 20 competitors and 19 of them get a trophy. If this happen is because the instructor do the job correctly. I do not know when will go to one of your seminars, but I'm sure will be there soon.

Comments: Kalarippayattu is considered to be "The Mother of all Martial Arts". Its's dojo is called kalari. Since the practitioners of this martial were mainly the Nair caste or warrior class ,they would be closely related to the Japanese samurai and therefore, their art would be similar to jujutsu. It is believed that the origin of jujutsu can be dated back to India. About the martial arts cable network , whom do you approach about submissions of show pilots and advertising rates?

I have also been in the company of Sensei Mark Norman who teaches the art of Ninjitsu in TN. Do you have any links to any camps that might be available in my current location? Thanks. Comments: This was my first time on your page. I have really enjoyed it so far. It is nice to see a page that supports the quality and integrity of martial arts. But I have jsut moved to Phoenix from Montana. I am trying to find a quality school down here. I received my green belt in TKD last year. I injured my back and have been out for a year. I have already had trouble with a school down here that is a total disgrace to martial arts and goes against everything it stands for. A school which is run by a guy by the name of(or he calls himself) Grand Master Sun Duk Choi. He claims to be the son of General Choi. He tried to sue me, and finally I had to call the better business bureau and after months and months of dealing with him, he finally decided it was not worth it and the BBB said they have had very many complaints about the school. After that ordeal I was quite leary of schools down here but I found a school ran by David Karstadt who was taught by General Choi Hong Hi. He is very close with the general and the general has said on many occasions that this is not his son. Anyways my back went out so I had to drop out, but know am looking for a good school down here. Mr. Karstadt is an outstanding instructor, he represents everything good in martial arts, but it is quite a drive, so if you could help me with some quality schools here, I would appreciate. Great Page!!

Comments: Been looking for info on tournaments in Florida. I have a 7-year old son (Maxwell Collins) studying with Jack Morris in Tallahassee. Max is quite good and does well in local tournaments. He's only a green belt but he loves to compete whether he places or not. Anyway, I'm not really a stage mother (maybe just in my heart), but my son loves karate and practices all of the time. Are there any tournaments that he can enter outside of Tallahassee? Does he have to be a black belt? I'm not talking about the Grand Nationals (which I understand Jack Morris won 4 times). I look forward to a response. My home address is 3429 Valley Creek Dr., Tallahassee, FL 32312 850-668-7782 Thank you very much. Serena Collins

Comments: I've just read your guestbook. Other than that I think the site is a great idea. I'm very interested in a 24 hr martial arts cable channel! How 'bout all you people signing the guestbook & then in the section called "Comments" crapped on about yourselves. "Hi, I'm john, I have a blue belt in this... I think I'm really buff" etc. Personally I'd prefer a good kick in the head over reading this kind crap. Martial Arts is about appreciating life period. You realise how frail the human body & mind really is. But the individual is irrelevant; The Way was here before your birth. And the Way will be here long after. In ending I'd like to leave you all with a motto I think all of you "Gee I'm so damn good" so-called martial artists could take on-board: In the beginning there was the Way In the end, past Honour, past Life, past Caring, In the end will be the Way

I am very excited about it, and support it as much as possible! I have alot of things going on in my life right now, but havnt gone back to training as of yet. I know i need to go back to my training, cus i cus i feel i could really do something if i were put in the right situation! I have written u guys before, and i dont know who reads the guestbook, or anything but i hope that whoever reads this catches there eye! I have been in martial arts most of my life, and miss trraining alot, cus i know that is the true me! I have studied four different styles they include Mui Twaii, Okinawan, Dragon, and Nijitsu! I wish somebody would respond to my letters here but it seems to me whoever reads this is, either not high up, and cant help me, or someone who doesnt care about past sad martial art stories! I live in "Denver, Co" and what ever happens in my life, like i said before i will always be a martial artist and live by the way! I am 5'9 , red hair, 150lbs. Over the years that i have been out of training i have done other things to keep myself in good physical condition like hiking, biking, playing basketball alot and just gettting out doing outdoor things! My name is "Kal Shadden" and i wish someday i could come back, i know i really need to cus i am getting older! Whoever should read this u can get a hold of me at the above e-mail address if u can help me, i am looking for a private sensei ! I really dont think that exists anymore but i still would love having somebody help me in my "Quest" of being something special ! I havnt had the money to go to tournaments, and feel i

Now I am finding it fascinating, increased energy, physically and emotionally. I love the learning aspect. Would like to see more, if you have any ideas please pass them on.

How did you find TMAN?: Just Surfing On In!

Comments: I am a practitioner of the martial arts with a varied background starting with Moo Duk Kwan, From James Roberts, Jr. in the D.C. area in '69-'70, (he was a third dan at 17 yrs old in '69, and was the top rated tournament competitor in Katas in the early 70's. I actually dated his sister who was a first dan in 7th grade) continuing with Roger Carpenter's school in Wichita, Ks. as well as competitive wrestling in high school, and jr golden gloves boxing in southern Cal with Bingham's Raiders, The #1 amateur team in early 70's. I have always thought that the serious martial artist needs to be versatile, and not limited to one style. I feel submissions are just as, if not more effective than knockout blows in a self defense situation where it is one on one but is obviously limiting in situations where there are several assailants. (I also ran the 100 and the 440 relay in high school which is sometimes the best defense of all!) Any views on the competitions such as the UFC etc? They are proving what I have known for years that grapplers have the distinct advantage in a one on one situation, but so what? If I can out run you or better still out shoot you then whats the point? Are these tournaments good for martial arts or do they lessen the truthfulness of the fact that a practitioner with the discipline, skill and training of say James could simply kill the assailant quickly. (James never believed in tournament sparring or full contact because it bypassed that point exactly. He never taught us to pull punches!) I think maybe it is adding a level of violence to the mainstream of our society that our children are being heavily influenced by. My point is driven home by a recent poll at an elementary school, when the children were asked who there favorite athlete was, the top two or three were WWF wrestlers! Steve Austin? who?

Comments: Hi I am relatively new to martial arts (I practiced Tai Kwon Do in high school for a couple of years but that is about it). I am interested in getting back into it. Do you have any suggestions on which style to practice first? Is one better than another (or just different)? Since there are so many styles out there from Muay Thai to Aikido I was wondering if you could give me some direction. I have been leaning in the direction of Shotokan or general "kickboxing". My goals are to: incr flexibility (I am somewhat of a bodybuilder and have grown inflexible over the yrs) Self defense incr Discipline and control of the mind lastly, in general, become a badass Any insight you could provide would be greatly appreciated. Also, are there any good websites out there that explain / identify the benefits and strategies of each style? Thanks

Just in the short time I have visited your site, I feel I could benefit, as well as share with others. I'm a little fed up with the so called "martial arts chat rooms" There is no respect, and the constant swearing, and name calling is not my idea of meeting people. So there, I've said it all. I am interested in becoming a member, I am about to go to that now.

Comments: Great idea! Glad to see people working to get martial arts into the public consciousness as more than just entertainment. Entertainment is wonderful of course, but there needs to be more exposure to martial arts as art and as a way of living and what that means to different martial artists. I hope that's at least part of what you want to accomplish. Judging by the list of advisors I saw, looks like you're off to a great start! Here's an idea: even though there are more martial arts styles and unique variations thereof to ever fully catalog, what I would like to see is more exposure for martial arts that came from a non-asian background. I want to make clear that this NOT because of any bias of mine toward any asian arts. Its just that lots of asian arts get plenty of coverage already, those are the one that the general public hears the most about. What about arts like Savate, Capoeira (sp?), and Sokol, or Western style boxing and wrestling? The asian cultures weren't the only ones to come with unarmed combat arts. Every culture on earth came up with some kind of unarmed and armed fighting style, and that's something we shouldn't forget. The site looks great, looks like you're off to a fine start! something that I would like to thank you for having such an informative webpage. This is the best I have seen so far! I am 27 years old and am studying under the Kokon Ryu Aikido-Bujutsu Renmei organization. I have only been studying for a year now, but I am totally into everything. I just can't get enough of it. We learn and practice 5 different styles of martial arts at our school. I hope to be able to continue learning as long as I possibly can. I look forward to reading your webpage and keeping informed by doing so! Thanks again! Carla

Comments: I am looking forward to seeing a show that would educate people on martial arts. While looking for the schedule of the "Sport Judo" airing I realized that there is not any type of martial arts scheduling on the sports channels search areas. They had paintball, cheerleading and a few other sports that do not have nearly the world wide recogning of martial arts, it sure is sad. I guess we need alittle more politics!!!

our style, in opposition to WTF, contact is forbidden during a combat, which makes it (to me) more attractive, since "control" is the key word.

They wanted to induct me for a fee of $250.00. If it is a true hall of fame then a person like myself who has 35 years in the arts and has given of his time freely to the arts should not be charged. I have competed all over the world. I just retired after 20 years in law-enforcement and teach privately in Sacramento. I have studios in San Diego, CA, Reedsport Oregon, San Francisco, and branches in the southern California area. I am first cousin to the late tennis great "Arthur Ashe" and am very much into "AIDS and Heart Association" fund raisers. I just wanted to join the group and to say "hi" to everyone and to keep practicing.

But, I have not huge sum of money to afford 60$ to 150$ a month to pay for instructions from an instructor of a dojo or school. By the way I have trained in: Tae Kwon do, Chinese kung fu & Tai chi Chaun, and Jeet Kune Do. If there is anyone willing to train me contact me in Columbus, Ohio at Driving Park Recreation Center on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Most interested in Tao of Jeet Kune Do and Shaolin Kung Fu.

Comments: I've practiced martial arts on and off since I was about 11 years old. The first art I studied was Taekwon-do, which I still consider it my "anchor" art. I've also studied Goju-Ryu, Tien Shan-Pai Chaun Fa, and pa-kua(briefly). I hope to get back into it full time once I start working full-time again. Its good to see martial arts practitioners getting serious and establishing an presence on the WWW.

Comments: FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE CONTACT: Tony Interdonato (407) 370-4460 FSGI CORPORATION ANNOUNCES NAME CHANGE TO REFLECT NEW INTERNET COMPANY AND APPOINTS NEW BOARD ATLANTA - December 22, 1998-FSGI Corporation (OTCBB – “FSGI”)

announced today that it has agreed to change its name to reflect the recent acquisition/merger with The Martial Arts Network On-Line, Inc. The new name of the company will be TMAN Global.Com and the company headquarters will be relocated to Universal Studios Florida. Both changes will take effect as of January 1, 1999. As we previously reported, The Martial Arts Network On-Line, is a two-year-old internet company that has built one of the largest web sites in the world devoted exclusively to the martial arts and health/fitness industries. The web site can be found at: www.martial-arts-network.com TMAN On-Line as it is sometimes called, was a wholly owned subsidiary of a television network located out of Universal Studios Florida called The Martial Arts Action Network and was purchased for 3 million shares of restricted common stocks of FSGI. The merger of the two companies brings about a wealth of new management talent to the organization. In a unanimous vote Monday morning, Ron Tramontano and Tony Interdonato were both appointed to the Board of Directors of the new company. Tramontano will serve as president of the new corporation, while Interdonato will act as Chairman and CEO. Tramontano, a 5TH Degree Black Belt in Tang Soo Do, is also a successful business executive with many years experience in running an Internet-related firm. Interdonato is currently the president of The Martial Arts Action Network, a television network located at Universal Studios Florida in Orlando. Jason Lents, former president of FSGI, will remain on the Board of the new company and will continue to serve as President and CEO of Financial Standards Group, FSGI Corporation’s wholly owned subsidiary. In another development, TMAN Global.Com has decided to continue using Managerial Advisory Services as their investor relations firm. MAS spokesperson, Cesar Muniz, says “We are happy to continue to be associated with FSGI Corporation in their new incarnation, and look forward to many years of success together”. Comments: The Martial Arts Network On-Line is now a publicly traded company symbol (FSGI) FSGI CORPORATION ANNOUNCES ACQUISITION OF ON-LINE INTERNET COMPANY Atlanta, GA - December 21, 1998 - FSGI Corporation (OTCBB-"FSGI") announced today that it has completed its acquisition of a highly successful on-line martial arts entertainment company. According to Jason Lents, President & CEO of FSGI, "FSGI has acquired one of the largest on-line internet martial arts companies in the world. They have a lot of creative vision and we feel that they will make a great addition to FSGI." The company, known as The Martial Arts Network On-Line, is a two year old Internet company that has built one of the largest web sites in the world devoted exclusively to the martial arts and health/fitness industries, and can be located at its www.martial-arts-network.com web site. TMAN On-Line as it is sometimes called, was a wholly owned subsidiary of a television network located out of Universal Studios Florida called The Martial Arts Action Network. The company has many services it plans to offer its clients now that the acquisition by FSGI is complete. According to Ron Tramontano, President of The Martial Arts Network On-Line, "We have been able to accomplish some pretty amazing things in this industry in a very short period of time. We are currently in negotiations with several large fitness corporations and Hollywood celebrities who will be partnering with us down the road in a variety of TMAN On-Line ventures. The Martial Arts Network On-Line is attempting to cash in on the multi-billion dollar a year health and fitness industry, with a strong emphasis on martial arts and extreme sports. Tramontano goes on to say, "We have built up a very successful operation by utilizing some uniquely talented people on our staff. We are making plans to bring some new ideas into the marketplace that will revolutionize the way people use the Internet as it pertains to health and fitness." Some of the current and/or planned services to be offered by the company include: a virtual shopping mall offering discount prices on name brands sporting goods and apparel for the adventurous man/woman. A virtual bookstore that will sell how-to books, videotapes, CD's, DVD's and cassettes, anything to do with martial arts, action/adventure, extreme sports, health, fitness, and nutrition. Comments: I am really excited about this site. I have always had a big interest in the Martial Arts but was never able to take any formal lessons. My father and I would buy some magazines and the like, but never got around to our goal of taking a class together. He had taken Taekwondo as a youth and I have just started a Taekwondo class at college. Eventually, because of my size, I would like to study in Ju Jitsu, and because in NHB matches such as UFC...grapplers tend to dominate. I suppose that this is because many fights end up on the ground, and if you want to take it to the ground you usually can. Well, keep up the good work! As I stated before I am really excited about this site!

I want to return without sacrificing Kenpo because I have seen the Tiger in a vision with June Castro holding it, was at first a harmless infant, but then grew into harmless adult. Kenpo means Law of the Fist while Wa means Harmony, Shin means GOD (YHWH), Ryu means family. I believe in studying all Martial Arts, whether it be Karate, Subak, or Taekwondo because basically, they are all the same if you dissect them, all having the common lineage with Shaolin Wushu. I admire the Goddess Annie Oakley!

How did you find TMAN?: Just Surfing On In!

Comments: Greetings..great site. This is in response to the question on the 15th of Jan about "Aikido in real life situations". Like any martial art, it takes time and effort to get good at something. Aikido is no exception and in fact it takes many , many years to become "confident". I have practiced a few styles of aikido, some softer, some harder, but would never think of using it if possible. Many times, the art of verbal aikido is all that is needed. BUT, the basic answer to the question of real life situations is this: while aikidoists practice in harmony with one another, those individuals who have "ill intentions" or a "warped mind" (as O-sensei describes) can be controlled quite easily. It is the goal of every aikidoists (or martial artist I hope) to avoid conflict. However, if it is impossible to avoid, the aikido techniques can be very effective. Again, the goal of aikido is to not harm the aggressor, but neutralize the attack. It CAN be the case however, that if the aggressor resists the aikido technique, that they (the aggressor) can seriously harm themselves. If one wants to learn how to punch, take boxing. A good boxing can give any martial artist a run for their money. However, if one wants to be able to defend against such punches, then aikido may be right for you. As Vergil said....."They are able because they think they are able." Take care all..... Ps: Tune into "Ki Issues" on real Audio <http://cfuv.uvic.ca> on Thurs @ 12:05 pm pst for martial arts interviews and discussions on CFUV Radio 102 fm.....

Comments: I am trying to get some info about Aikido's effectiveness for self-defense. As we know most Martial Arts are thought of as self-defense, but I am skeptical as to the degree that it will work. I have recently had to give up a Reality based art because of the risk of injury. I am considering a shift to Aikido but want to be sure that it will be effective. I know when practiced your partner flows with your technique, working with you. Does anyone have experience in practicing Aikido in a self-defense situation?

Comments: Hello there, I just came across this web site by luck but something that is slightly concerning me is how little info. I am finding on Hapkido. Here in Regina, Saskatchewan Hapkido popularity is growing exponentially. Regina, believe it or not is huge into martial art. The man responsible for Hapkido in this province is Master Thomas Lok, he holds a 7th degree and is the president of the World Martial Arts Federation of Canada. He was instructed in Hong Kong by Grandmaster Jin Pal Kim (10th degree). Grandmaster Kim's past history is somewhat amazing ie. currently instructs the secret service personal at the White House, personal bodyguard to various past presidents etc.,etc.,etc. These two individuals teach one of the oldest forms of Korean Martial Art. Hapkido has remained a true means of self defence not sport and it is frustrating not being able to find info. on this seemingly well kept secret! Tyler Klatt

Comments: Hello again. This is Diane again, Like I said before, I studied for ten years, half that time with Cynthia. Pretty dedicated parents at the time, sold our house in florida and packed two cars, and drove to Santa Clara to train with Cynthia. I think I got the case of the burn out after competing non stop for almost ten years. Basically had a tough father behind me. But I think at one time I was really good. And I do not say that about a lot of things I do, but karate was a big part of my younger, younger years. I am twenty three and looking to get back into it, but finding it hard. I miss the excitement, the endurance, and pure competition. I live in Savannah now, and there is not much to the karate schools here. I guess being out, and competing on a national level, its hard to compete in the tournaments. I really would like to start training again, and would like to at least talk with Cynthia again. I doubt anyone out there could help, but if you can PLEASE contact me. Thank you DDIIAANNe@aol.com

How did you find TMAN?: Just Surfing On In!

Comments: Greetings..great site. This is in response to the question on the 15th of Jan about "Aikido in real life situations". Like any martial art, it takes time and effort to get good at something. Aikido is no exception and in fact it takes many , many years to become "confident". I have practiced a few styles of aikido, some softer, some harder, but would never think of using it if possible. Many times, the art of verbal aikido is all that is needed. BUT, the basic answer to the question of real life situations is this: while aikidoists practice in harmony with one another, those individuals who have "ill intentions" or a "warped mind" (as O-sensei describes) can be controlled quite easily. It is the goal of every aikidoists (or martial artist I hope) to avoid conflict. However, if it is impossible to avoid, the aikido techniques can be very effective. Again, the goal of aikido is to not harm the aggressor, but neutralize the attack. It CAN be the case however, that if the aggressor resists the aikido technique, that they (the aggressor) can seriously harm themselves. If one wants to learn how to punch, take boxing. A good boxing can give any martial artist a run for their money. However, if one wants to be able to defend against such punches, then aikido may be right for you. As Vergil said....."They are able because they think they are able." Take care all..... Ps: Tune into "Ki Issues" on real Audio <http://cfuv.uvic.ca> on Thurs @ 12:05 pm pst for martial arts interviews and discussions on CFUV Radio 102 fm.....

As we know most Martial Arts are thought of as self-defense, but I am skeptical as to the degree that it will work. I have recently had to give up a Reality based art because of the risk of injury. I am considering a shift to Aikido but want to be sure that it will be effective. I know when practiced your partner flows with your technique, working with you. Does anyone have experience in practicing Aikido in a self-defense situation?

How did you find TMAN?: Just lucky, I guess

Comments: Hello there, I just came across this web site by luck but something that is slightly concerning me is how little info. I am finding on Hapkido. Here in Regina, Saskatchewan Hapkido popularity is growing exponentially. Regina, believe it or not is huge into martial art. The man responsible for Hapkido in this province is Master Thomas Lok, he holds a 7th degree and is the president of the World Martial Arts Federation of Canada. He was instructed in Hong Kong by Grandmaster Jin Pal Kim (10th degree). Grandmaster Kim's past history is somewhat amazing ie. currently instructs the secret service personal at the White House, personal bodyguard to various past presidents etc.,etc.,etc. These two individuals teach one of the oldest forms of Korean Martial Art. Hapkido has remained a true means of self defence not sport and it is frustrating not being able to find info. on this seemingly well kept secret! Tyler Klatt

Comments: Hello again. This is Diane again, Like I said before, I studied for ten years, half that time with Cynthia. Pretty dedicated parents at the time, sold our house in florida and packed two cars, and drove to Santa Clara to train with Cynthia. I think I got the case of the burn out after competing non stop for almost ten years. Basically had a tough father behind me. But I think at one time I was really good. And I do not say that about a lot of things I do, but karate was a big part of my younger, younger years. I am twenty three and looking to get back into it, but finding it hard. I miss the excitement, the endurance, and pure competition. I live in Savannah now, and there is not much to the karate schools here. I guess being out, and competing on a national level, its hard to compete in the turnaments. I really would like to start training again, and would like to at least talk with Cynthia again. I doubt anyone out there could help, but if you can PLEASE contact me. Thank you DDIIAANNe@aol.com

I am TaeKwonDo instructor teaching in the city of Edmonton.I am an original member of Ochiichago'way'babigoining First Nation Reserve located in North Western Ontario.

My martial arts studies began twenty years ago with Karate at the age of thirteen. I have studied boxing, Ju-Jitsu and Judo.

The NORTH AMERICAN INDIGENOUS GAMES has now included TaeKwonDo as a full medal event!

Please take a moment to check out my home page. If you have any information on where I can find the above mentioned people and either send me an e-mail or sign my guestbook, or both.

Comments: I am a ShoDan in a style of Ju Jitsu called Shobudo Bu Jitsu Ju Jitsu. We recently separated from our affiliate in Lansing, MI because they were diluting the techniques we have, with other types of techniques from different arts (Iaido, Hapkido, & Aikido). We retained the hard, te wazas known in Aiki-JuJitsu because we wanted to ensure the original techniques were kept pure. I am trying to research our history in the Aiki-JuJitsu lineage because our Founder, Master

Nakasato Shoshu, has been very secretive in where he studied in Japan and Okinawa. Master Nakasato lives in Okinawa and keeps to himself in the mountainous regions of the country. I have been given approval for this quest by our Kaicho, HachiDan Robert B. Morton, who resides in Wellington, NV. I am looking for any information on individuals who taught Ju Jitsu in Japan during the 1940's through the 1960's. Any assistance would be greatly appreciated. I can be reached at my email address. Thank you. In Budo, Johnson. Sensei

Comments: To whom it may concern. I studied in Oregon at Bob Barrow Pro-Karate in the late 70's and early 80's. Tang Soo Do was the style. Chuck Norris was Mr. Barrows instructor, at that time Tang Soo Do Chuck Norris karate went through a transformation and changed its name to Champion Karate systems. The school was then changed to a young Black Belt who purchased it from Bob. That person's name was Chip Wright who is a Black Belt and in the black belt hall of fame as a fighter of the year. Additionally the organization was renamed UFAF (UNITED FIGHTING ARTS FEDERATION). I WOULD LIKE TO KNOW THE ADDRESSES OF ANY UFAF, OR LISTINGS NATION WIDE.

I studied under one of Al Tracy's students John Fite for about 14 months straight, got to meet Mr. Ed Parker at a seminar in Wichita Falls, Tx. in 1980, also got to participate in some of the work-outs. Also got into some Japanese styles, Korean, and Thai. I really miss it wish I could get back into it!! Thanks For Your time.

I had hoped for. Sonny and Jim did an outstanding job. By the way they have cast me for their next upcoming movie. The name is Living by the Sword. I am playing the Lt.. Colonial. I would just like to take this opportunity to personally thank you for all your help. I have a problem that I hope you can help me with. I have been fighting a Bill that has come before committee at the State Capital. this is HB1650. You can view this bill @ WWW.ARKLEG.STATE.US This is an attempt to tax and regulate the martial art industry. The way it reads is, If I host a tournament of any size and award a child with trophy, it automatically registers that child as a semi-pro and he/she as to by a license for a cool grand and the event must pay a 5% tax on all proceeds. All events are subject to audit and must be sponsored by the American Legion. As you can see this is clearly stupid. If you can help please let me know soon, time is running out. He has been taught to be non-combative with other children and is finding it hard to accept the violence he is facing every day. He is 8 years old and my daughter is 10. I looked up the Tang Soo Do in the dictionary to find out more. The local YMCA is currently teaching this form of martial arts.

Comments: Interesting web site with global awareness. It will take some time to digest the many facets of TMAN. My primary interest in the martial arts has been physical conditioning with self-defense as a natural outcome. Breaking wood and cement blocks, and conditioning of the striking tool is one aspect of the martial arts that has always intrigued me. For those wishing to learn more about "Selective Breaking" or for those who would like to share their own experiences about various breaks, please visit my website and pass on your knowledge. I am certified under the World Taekwondo Federation and have been teaching our people for the past five years. I am interested in hearing from all other Native martial artists and supports that are interested in assisting with the development of a Native martial arts federation. Bear in mind, that I also have studied karate, judo, jiu-jitsu and hapkido and understand the significance of all martial arts. However, for organizational purposes, taekwondo, my foundation art, is being used as a template for this organization. In addition, WTF Taekwondo is currently a full medal sport in our version of the Olympics, THE NORTH AMERICAN INDIGENOUS GAMES. Please check out the home page and send your comments and ideas. Comments: I am currently in Jeet Kune Do, a no technique, freestyle martial art that was devised by the late Bruce Lee, and Danny Inosanto. It teaches us that in street fighting there are no limits and no bounds, if there were rules it would not be a street fight, it would be a tournament. There are no belts, just levels, I will be in the second level soon, a day after my birthday. I am inspired to be the next Dragon and I would like to be in Extreme Fighting or a bodyguard. If I have offended anyone about their art, please do not take it that way. I am not bragging that Jeet Kune Do is better, after all Jeet Kune Do is just a name. I am merely promoting it to inquiring martial arts- hopefuls.

Comments: The last time I asked a question in the TMAN guestbook, I got a great response. So now I am pretty sure someone out there can help me out with this. I am 14 year old ORANGE belt (yeah I got it!) and I am average size for my age. But my mom will not let me go to tournaments!!!! She says they are "too dangerous." I have tried my hardest to explain to her that tournaments go on everyday, and serious injury is unlikely, but she wont listen. The rest of my class go to tournaments nearly every weekend, so I feel kinda left out. I had looked forward to this one tournament for weeks and I was really upset when she said I couldnt go!! My dad is no help either, he cant even pronounce taekwondo. PLEASE HELP!!!!!! I am studying taekwondo, pasaryu, aikido, judo, and taichi, so I think I would have a chance to win@!!thanks, you guys dan in Kamibushishin-do. You've probably never heard of it. It was created not too long ago by a man who studied many different martial arts. He combined what he studied into One style. But being a drama student and loving to act, I was wondering if there were any opportunities in the area of martial arts acting. I hope there is.

But I really love Martial Arts, it gives me piece of mind, and helps me to relax!!!! But please do so by sending me an e mail I would love to hear from anyone who loves Martial Arts as much as I do!!!!!!! Sincerely,

I'm running my own school called, International Martial Arts Academy. I teach Tang Soo Do and self defense and also teach an all female karate/self defense class. Master Harris teaches Chinese Kenpo, and Master Jason teaches a weapons class, And Girard Harrison 1st dan teaches a cardio karate and beginners class. Stop by and visit us at 1230 Gladys, in Long Beach, ca. Also, if you're a local, watch our show, "Marhar House Karate Show" you'll find it on many local cable stations! Train hard, keep peace! Encourage more women to train! Statistics regarding crimes against women are becoming staggering. They need to learn at least some basic self defense!Encourage unity in the martial arts community!

Comments: At the present I am browsing your site. I am the lead tactical instructor for Defensive Tactics at the Investigative Training Academy US Customs, Federal Law Enforcement Training Center. I was awarded a black belt in Kaji Ken Fu Budu Kai Kan Karate in 1974. The art was taught in the early 70's in Hawaii and entails a lot of Tae Kwon Do, among other styles combined together. I fought on the US Army Free Style Combatives Team in the early 70's and instructed hand to hand combat to Army and Marine Commando types. My question is since I can't own or operate a private school at the present will your company honor a school discount since I am the lead instructor and coordinator for def tacts at the Law Enforcement Center? Thank You Sincerely, Jim Keane CDI/USCS Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, Glynnco, GA

Comments: I am a dwarf (4'2") who lives in South Florida. I am currently a student of traditional Japanese karate. I am curious to know if there are any other "little people" that you may know of who teach or train in the South Florida area. The Shihon that I train under is very good but I think it would be to my advantage to at least get some tips from another little person who is more experienced than myself. Thanks a lot for your time and I hope to hear back. This is a great resource.

Comments: On my previous sign in I neglected to give my e-mail address! It is ActionCine@aol.com I sell copies of very clear martial art movies. I began this venture because I was tired of the expense of "legit" copiers of movies like tai seng and crash video and the bad quality of "illegit" copiers. I have been very successful in my neighborhood and my friends I should try the internet. Anyone interested should e-mail me their address and I will mail them a copy of my movie list (currently 56 movies!!) The price for all movies is $10 including free shipping anywhere in the USA!!!

Comments: I feel very lucky to find your webpage. I used AOL's web search. I have been selling copies of martial art movies to my friends and they suggested try the Internet. So I am surfing around to see what is out here. I would appreciate any suggestions from any one. I am one of quite a few people who was tired of bad copies and bad movies and the unnecessary expense of buying copies from "legitimate" copiers like tai seng, shaolin dolemite, and crash videos. My copies are quite clear and are only $10 per copy including shipping anywhere in the USA. Thanks for allowing me a forum.

Comments: I've been studying JiuJitsu for over 3 years under the Canadian Ninja-Ryu JiuJitsu BlackBelt Fellowship. I hope to obtain my blackbelt next fall(Sept. 2000). I have always been interested in the martial arts not only for its physical preparation, but the mental preparation that you get from it. I have been to various seminars and have learnt a variety of techniques from other martial arts. I find this helps broaden ones abilities, so that they are not stuck thinking that you can only do something this way and that's it. The more techniques you can learn, the greater your knowledge becomes. Knowledge is power. Don't forget to practice what you learn.

It was a priviledge to receive this instruction and I appreciate the opportunity. I had previously studied Tae Kwon Do reaching 1st Don while living in Georgia. The transition to the Tang Soo Do style is a bit more difficult than I had anticipated in that there are differing areas of emphasis. On the other hand, I have gained a great deal of insight into several aspects of applying the martial arts which I believe are very important to balancing my practice. Thank you Master Tramantono for your gift to all martial artists. Gordon Quillin

Comments: Glanced through archives this morning and as luck would have it I came across a letter dated November 22, 1998 written by a "Professor" Joseph B.Yerkes concerning the World Karate Union Hall Of Fame or as he has called it hall of shame! Yes, Mr. Yerkes you were recommended to us last year as are 99 % of our inductees by our board members and past inductees. However as vice president of organization, I would propose that you be the first recipient of Hall Of Shame Award since you have chosen to print your allegations without inquiring about the organization! Yes there is a fee - most award banquets do charge one. Each of our members receive a plaque, WKUHOF ring, dinner seminars, etc.We also host one in Australia and run a Ratings System. You are not the only person with 35 years experience. Among our noteworthy are the late Grandmasters Harold Long, and Don Nagle. Aaron Banks, Johnny Kuhl, Gary Alexander and Phillip Porter are among those who joined us and were honored this past June. Contrary to your beliefs, not all who apply are admitted. For those as high as yourself, there is a screening process which goes before our 20 highest ranking members. There is no telling whether you would have been voted on or not! Since I have just come across your letter and it has been on Internet for a year now, it is my turn to let those know that while you were recommended to us, I have never had the pleasure of speaking with you to explain or speak to you of the WKUHOF and I sincerely doubt that you have spoken to anyone in the organization!

Comments: Hello there, I am the instructor (Peter, not Sensei!) of this small club in West Yorkshire. I am less interested in oriental tradition, but am greatly interested in practical combat skills which will work at "street" level. I do respect the old masters, both oriental and western and feel that by concentrating on combat efficiency, I am remaining true to the traditional principles of Jujitsu.

Comments: Hi! Today I started a Martial Arts course through Montclair State University. I will be learning a mixture of Tae Kwon Doe, TAI Chi, and Halkdo (i don't know if I'm spelling these terms correctly). Anyway, I am also into Yoga! I am very excited about learning Martial Arts both as a form of self-defense and also for keeping my mind, body and spirit healthy and in tune. I'm interested in any films that depict Martial Arts and any specific people who were and still are influential to the Martial Arts. Thank you very much Catherine Hilton

Comments: While I believe your extensive subject matter provides a service to those seeking a degree of self-defense training, I wonder why its associated with a classical martial A R T -- not involving weapons nor grappling. Has the American W A Y replaced the traditional DO with multi-level belts, Do Boks, and self-promotion? I think, to a great extent, it has -- much to my disappointment. As Kyo Sa for a non-profit municipally sponsored Martial Arts (Tang Soo Do) program, it is easier for me to espouse a traditional curriculum without worrying how the rent will be paid. I still participate in tournaments to stay in shape and keep an edge, but I am saddened by the burgeoning and money-making subdivisions of Tang Soo Do Organizations who feel the need to change the uniforms and the techniques handed down by Grand Master Hwang Kee. I can understand one's group (as my teachers did) leaving the Federation for it's heavy-handedness -- but is it really necessary to create a new organization so that one might call himself "Grand Master"? I have even seen Kwan Jang Nim referred to as "Supreme Grand Master" to accomodate the many who wish to be "Grand". In order to see Tang Soo Do preserved, I accept those things over which I have no control -- I just refuse to embrace them.

High kicks, jumps, and very low falls, splits, backbends, and of course a series of weapon mastering (at least 6) which is complex, and ends up with the learning of 108 vital points on the body to immobilize, or strike with also bare hand fighting, when in great danger.

Comments: Hi , in 1974 I studied Viet Vi Dao in La Ciotat - south of France. We did not wear the blue suits of Vietnam. We had black suits and my teacher was master Xuam Pham Tong. I understand his technique varies somewhat from the original. I studied for 4 years and on my return to the Uk had to subdue two thugs outside a pub.This was in the summer of '79 and since then I have only used my skills once.I had to throw an aggressor out of my office. Viet Vo Dao is a hard discipline but extremely efficient once thoroughly learnt. If your teacher offers Saturday morning self defence sessions - GO!

Comments: Dear Friends and Supporters of TMAN: Things have been going great for the Network. We are rapidly moving towards our year-end launch. We do, however, have a favor to ask of everyone who has shown their support for us over the years. We now have a new division of TMAN called "Action Talent Management". The President of that division is Glenn Wilder - world famous 2nd Unit Director and Stunt Co-ordinator. We personally manage talented martial artists, stunt people, and special F/X technicians. One of our newest clients is Jeff Garner. Jeff is currently being considered by LucasFilms for the part of Young Anakin Skywalker in the next Star Wars prequel. In a current Entertainment Weekly Online Poll -he is in THIRD PLACE!!! - beating out such established talent as Joshua Jackson (Dawson's Creek) and Ryan Philippe (Cruel Intentions). Inserted below is a hyperlink to the voting page. We are asking all of our members and friends to log on and cast a vote for Jeff Garner ASAP. If we are successful in placing him in first place - he will get an invitation to fly to CA next week and do a Screen Test with Natalie Portman!!! The link is: http://www.ew.com/ew/weekly_poll/0,2536,,00.html Or go to www.ew.com and follow the links to the online poll! Please take a moment and help us get this done. The publicity that will surround the Network because of this will be VERY beneficial in building our credibility with both Hollywood and the general public! Thank you for your support!
